A Word From The Headmaster

A Message to the Students of BCS...

"It is not the beginning, but the continuing of the same until the end, until it be thoroughly finished that yieldeth the true glory."

-Sir Francis Drake

It's about seeing things through.

And here we are: at the end of the year when we watched Hartland Molson Hall being built, at the end of the year recorded in all the pages that follow.

But are we finished?

Our goal at BCS is to prepare you for whatever lies ahead; I wonder if we have succeeded? True, your teachers know you well; they know your strengths and your weaknesses; they care for your well-being, hold you accountable; they do their best to squeeze your best out of you. True, you have provided us with an international population. BCS isn't exactly colour-blind, but it is a place that comes ever closer to Dr. King's dream where a person is judged not by the colour of his skin, but by the "content of his character." True, at BCS your chance of success is not dependent on whether you are male or female, but on what you do, on how you perform, on how you get involved. True, you are asked to look beyond yourselves, beyond your own lives – to be conscious of, and sensitive to, those less fortunate than yourselves.

But the world is not like that. It's a racist world, a selfish world, a sexist world. After BCS, your success will be up to you as never before. People will judge you based on sex and race.

Have we prepared you for that? Sure you're ahead of the game academically. Sure, you've understood – many of you – that you get out of this life what you put in. But are you prepared you for the rest of it – for the indifference, for the intolerance, for what Ms. Lisson so often refers to as "our broken world?"

Well, prepared or not, it's up to you to finish the job.

Take with you the best of the BCS attitudes – of the BCS values; be colour-blind; care about other people; help those in need; treat people with respect.

Mutual respect, honesty, support. Take those values with you and what we have done here will have been enough. Take those values with you and you will make the world better.

This is the end of my 46th year living or working at BCS – the end of my 28th as a member of the BCS faculty, and the end of my first as Head. From all these years, and from the ones that lie ahead, I will remember this one. And of everything that has happened during this year, one day will always stand out: 2 ½ weeks ago, our boys' senior rugby team defeated Stanstead and won the league championship and we were all very proud. But that's not the day.

The day was eight months ago when all the school turned up to watch another championship game: the senior boys' football team playing Stanstead. It was raining and had been for hours. Before the game, students and teachers and parents alike were bucketing the water off the field. At half time, students brought hot chocolate down to warm the spectators. With five minutes to go, the score was zero-zero and Stanstead mounted the only successful drive of the day and won in the last minute. It was tough. Our team had lost the game, but they were not defeated. They stood tall, they congratulated their opponents, and then they turned to their supporters on the sideline – their supporters who had yelled in the rain all afternoon – and our players applauded the crowd.

2 ½ weeks ago, our rugby players showed us what we could do. Eight months ago, our football players showed us who we could be.

That's what makes me proud of this place. That's what makes me proud of you. Take who you are and give it to the world. Our broken world needs it.

Thank you.

Prefects

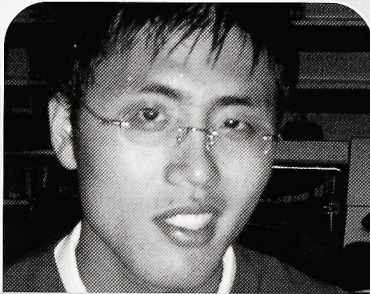

Stephen lives every day to the fullest. Whether attending at the R-S Conference in Germany, building houses for Haitian refugees in the Dominican Republic, or biking hundreds of kilometers in Peru for the Ondaatje Endeavor, Stephen always brings a positive atmosphere. There isn't a day when Stephen doesn't make somebody laugh. He loves adventure, which is why he's going to have the time of his life next year when he sails around the world with Class Afloat. Have a great time, you'll always be remembered at BCS!

So what can we say about Jacob? Head Prefect. Eloquent chapel reader. Valedictorian. Snappy dresser. There isn't anyone who can claim he didn't represent BCS in a mature way. To be able to pull off a tough job and make it look easy...that's the trick. I think Jacob not only pulled it off, he did it with a touch of class. Good luck in the future man.

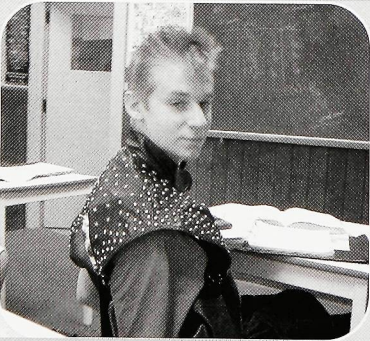

Arjun works hard on bringing the BCS reputation to new heights. His awe-inspiring look drives away the sleepiness in chapel. His solemn voice reads out a love poem, found that morning, the day before cadets. On the b-ball court, captain of the team, All-Star player, MVP, selflessly shares success with all. His skills attract the viewers and stir up our spirits to cheer. Academically, Ivy League schools approve. He respects everyone. He's charming, tactful, and prefers wearing black sneakers to Dr. Martins.

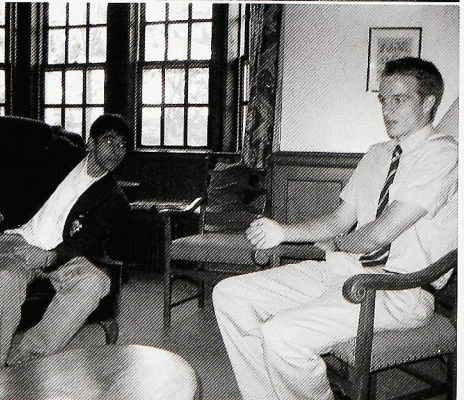

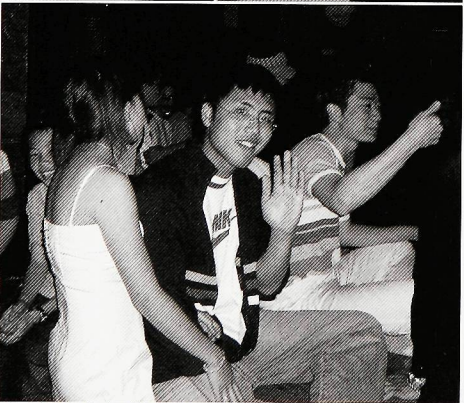

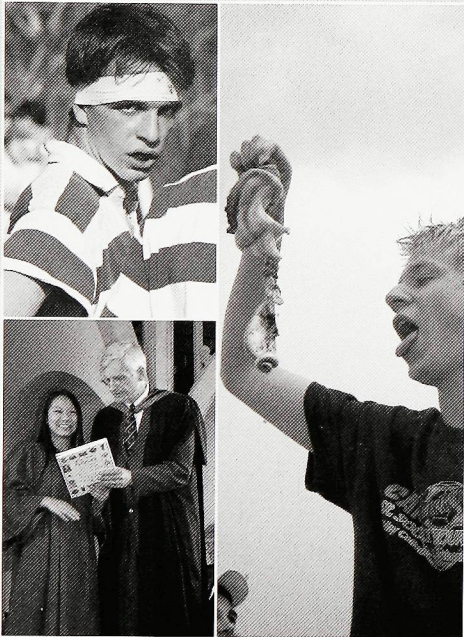

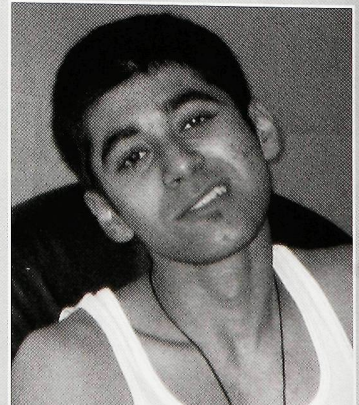

In school, Brian was a quiet observer and a cool Prefect. It's unfortunate this year that I did not get to play basketball with Brian; the reason well I'm not sure if it would be safe for me to say (he was loitering outside Williams, attempting to sing love songs through the windows). That aside, I have a lot of respect for Brian, and am glad that I developed a good friendship with him and had the privilege of working alongside him as a Prefect. I would like to wish you the best of luck in the future, and warn you to keep your naughty behaviour under control.

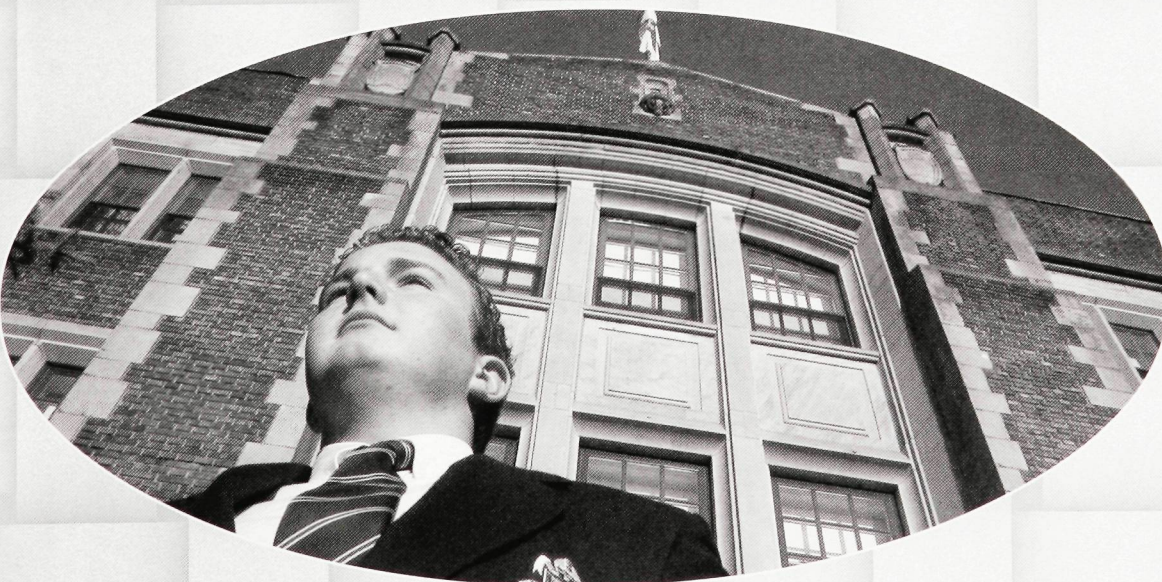

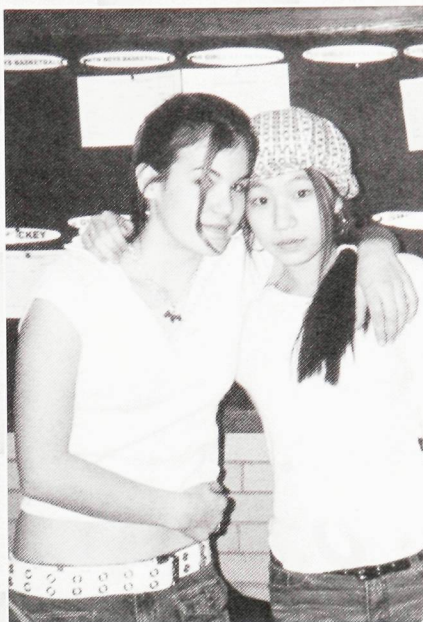

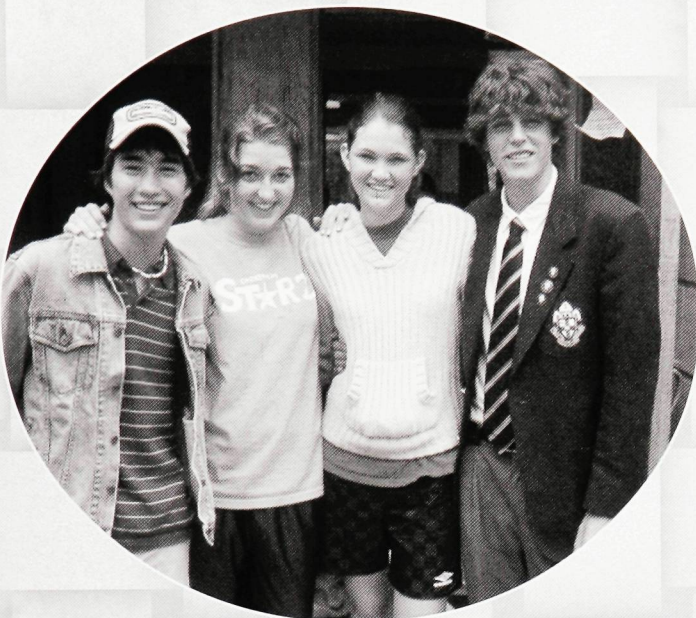

Who's that with the grin from ear to ear? Christina, of course. When she first came to BCS, a smart, bright-eyed, cheery faced young Taiwanese girl we... don't remember because she was the first one here. She is the only lifer prefect and this entitles her to special... privileges. She has brightened up countless days with her friendly smile and approachable personality, while excelling at intellectual feats. She will be truly missed and a void that threatens to consume all could develop if the Sun that is Christina Lee ever extinguishes from our hearts. We will miss you, golden ray of guiding light.

Colin, one of the 6 full time prefects...? Hidden behind that pretty boy physique is a devious mind constantly hatching ideas to bring authority to its knees. BCS never knew what hit them, and Colin still doesn't remember what hit his head at grad. Appendix, nah its just a stomach ache. 5th form bantam hockey hero! Ahoy, there's a whale off the starboard bow! Epsilon!

So now you are giving me 400 characters to thank everyone I have to, and reflect upon my time at BCS? Well, I won't even bother trying. The ones I love know that I will never forget them and all my great memories are shared with those who experienced them with me, and so it shall remain. But one thing my teenage brain realized here is that life is a race and in the end it is only with yourself!

I was a hungry boy. I thought I was going to eat BCS. No book, stone, squirrel, or student centre would remain undigested. Yet, it was this institutional creature that gobbled me up as a fledgling youth and excreted me a young man ready to tackle the world. Thank you Smith for a charming final year. Thank you Ed, my eternal roommate, for teaching me the true meaning of gluttony. Thank you MTurner, MrV, MrsHolland for guidance.

Really proud to be a member of BCS! It gives me the opportunity to experience and be able to define what a unique Canadian private school it is. The experience teaches; it does. Now we've packed and say goodbye to each other to catch the train for another transition. St. Martin's Chapel, and everyone; all of that, I'll miss you all in the fading sunset and the distant voices of saying goodbye.

Chapman House

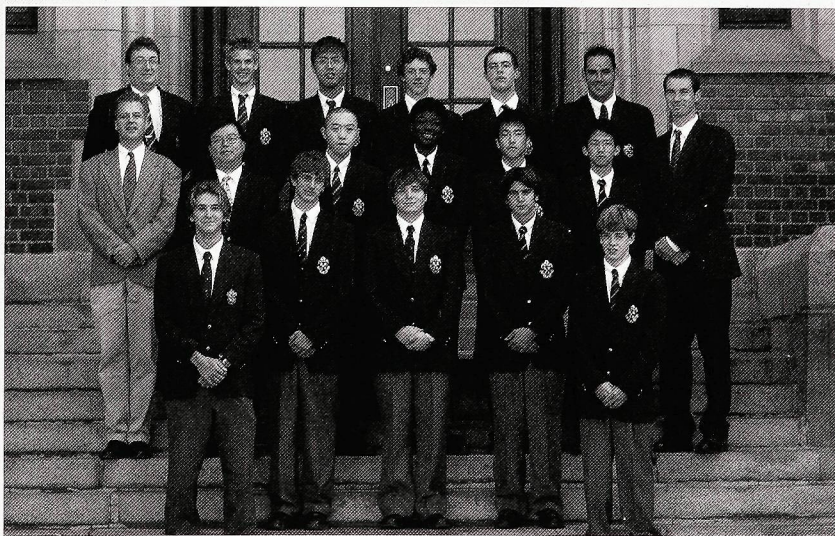

farthest away, but nearest to our hearts

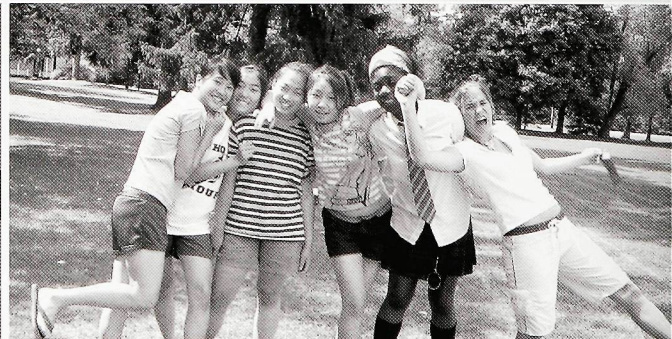

One day, while furiously trying to copy down notes off the board in calculus, my eyelids were forced down with the weight of 1000 logarithms and my head hit the desk with a heavy thud. I awoke (or so I thought) to Chapman House, and the loud base coming from room 1. I walk in to check if Steve needs to be watered and turned towards the sun, just to see him surrounded by a hoard of female admirers caressing his wavy hair. Only by peering past the women can I see Cale, engrossed in a comic, with his ninja headband on, practicing finger signals. Scared, I slam the door and run into the common room, hoping to find Sean for reassurance, but guy on the couch isn't there, and neither is his groove on the couch. A gunshot rings outside and I rush to the window to see Sean dressed in a jogging suit trying to protect the deer from poachers. I turn to the kitchen, needing a glass of water only to see Brian making a pot of noodles, Danny must have fallen ill. I go to make sure he is ok, only to see him entertaining another hoard of girls (there are never this many girls in Chapman), endlessly he talks, telling stories and jokes as the girls sit, engrossed with his tales. Another joke is told and the girls burst out laughing, from upstairs I hear a Carson yelling "Dang diddy, how can anyone listen to their classical music at an acceptable volume with all this ruckus, I am trying to get ahead on my studies." I rush upstairs to see if this is really the truth only to see Jimmy nod complacently, his face hidden under a mass of unkempt hair. Eventually the classical music at low volume starts to put me to sleep and I exit the room. Across the hall, I can see William meticulously folding his American flag whilst Chris sits quietly in meditation on a rug on the floor. Storming by the room is Ramsey who is whining about wanting to be back in McNaughton because the houseparent here is too uptight and boring. As I turn around, Jamie thrusts a petition for reducing fuel emissions into my face and Michael bursts out of his room wearing his school uniform and singing a French love song that I can't make out the words to. On the other side, Edmund sits alone on his bed reading a copy of "Snow Falling on Cedars" and trying not to be aggravated by Coderre as he noisily does jumping jacks in the center of the room. Still bewildered, I head down to room 3 where I find Rob categorizing his sock drawer while speaking in perfect French to some unknown female acquaintance he probably picked up the night before. In to the room walks Mr. D, big with a big smile on his face and a coke in his hand and he says to me, "Stephen, a bunch of people from Smith came by asking for help on the calculus assignment." At that moment, the ringing of the bell brought me from my dream, and I leapt up out of my chair in shock. Suddenly, a shout comes from the back of the room as Rob celebrates his 5th straight 100% correct test in Calculus.

Ross Girls

houseless for now...but always at home

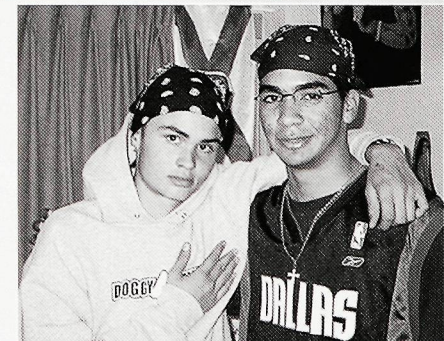

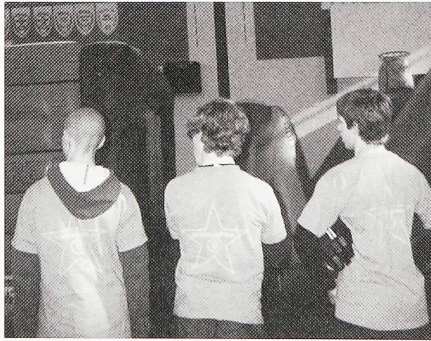

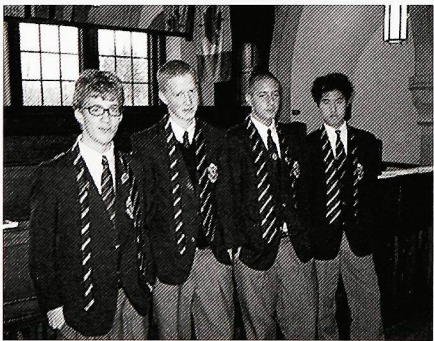

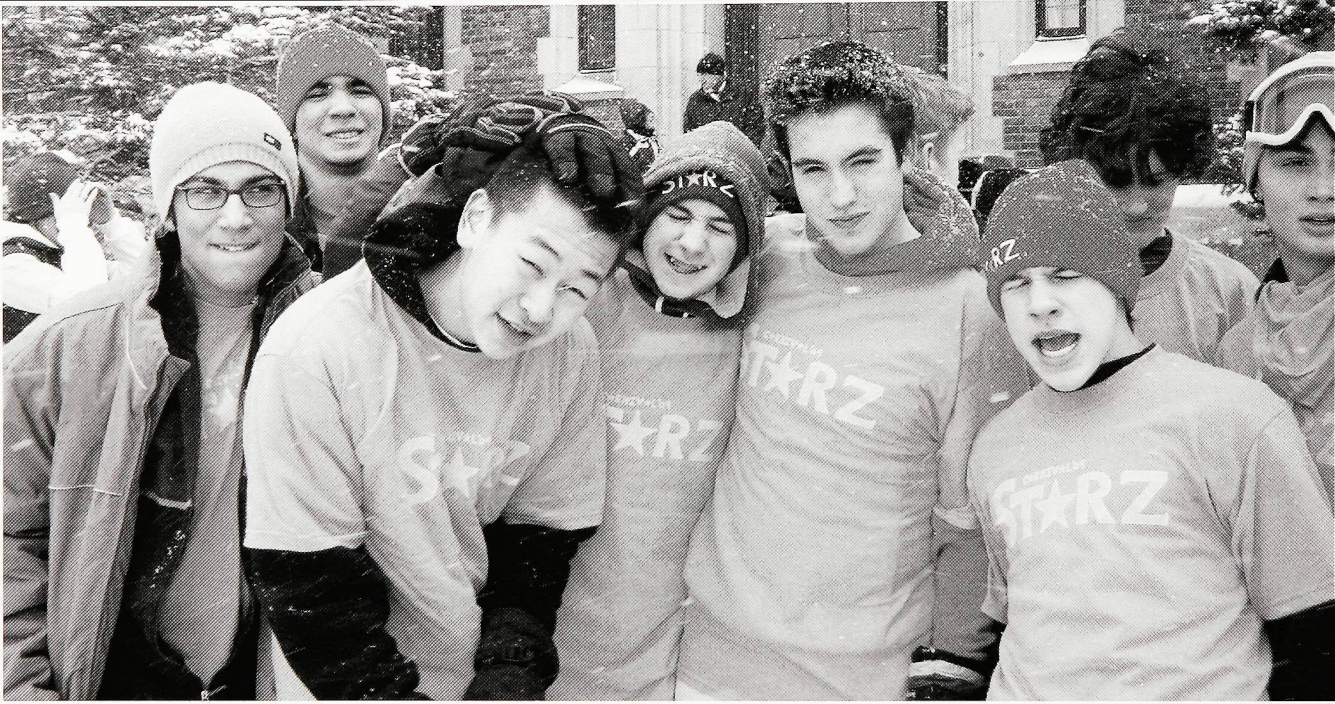

It's the night before school starts, and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, except for Véro and Sophie who are sneaking into chapel, late again. Mrs. Holland sings silently, peering around to see who is missing from the near-empty pews. Kim has an appointment this morning, and another this afternoon, so she won't be here today. Christina's in choir, singing with her perma-smile. Fiona got stuck in a 3-foot snowbank on her way from the gym, so we might not see her until spring. Clémence is MIA, but we're sure when she gets back she'll be chatting away with Véro and Sophie. Chrissa and Heather are sitting quietly in their pew, while Jennifer H. is still at center stairs, greeting everyone who comes by. Chiao-Tien is outside practicing her next birthday announcement. Camille, Julia, Amanda, and Sarah-Maude still believe they are Hobbits and are out looking for the Shire. We feel bad for Janina, having to endure Catherine's continual placotage (salut ma belle!) during the trek from the gym to the chapel. Jennifer D. and Justine hit their heads on the metal beams in the "tunnel" and are lying in the mud, knocked out. Kym is sitting with the guys, but Mrs. Holland knows she's in chapel because she can hear her laughter. Bridget is hunched over, trying to hide that she is on the phone with her boyfriend (what's his name again?). Kaitlin is still telling a story she started last year, while Jennah and Beth try to understand the deeper meaning behind it. Well, if there's any meaning at all. Émilie is going around chapel asking everyone (in song format, of course) if they've stolen her kilt. Krista is fending off her multiple admirers, as Sarah gives her help by tackling and rucking over them. Amy is clearing out dining hall, while searching for the only other Ross student on the committee, Amélie. She finally spots her crazy hair at the other end of the quad, and they go into chapel together. Eithne is tracking down C, J, A, and S-M, believing that they know the way to Elijah Wood. Although she may just end up at the mall spending all of her farmer husband's money. Mrs. Holland wakes up in a fright, and realizes that she was having a nightmare. But she sighs a sigh of relief, knowing that even though we have no house, and have been relegated to the gym, with her two fantastic heads of house, Emma and Kelli, who are undeniably perfect in every way, she has nothing to worry about.

Grier North House

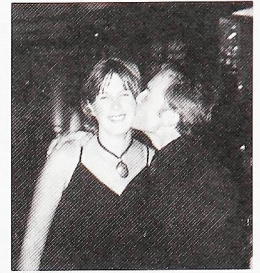

energy - in all its forms

This was my third and final year as a Houseparent, and I'd say it definitely ranked among the top three best. I'd like to thank the guys for keeping me busy with countless gatings, hours, house restrictions, Sunday laps... Hey, at least we won Carnival! 22 boys was a lot to handle and left little space to write here, so these comments will be short and sweet (just like me). Loic: The baby of the house, he grew up fast: smoking, sneaking out, big snake tattoo on his chest...where will it end?! Seb H: Sea Bass was a top student, a model citizen, and (if he's half as strong as the smell coming from his socks) he'll be a real force on the football team next year. Yann: I wanted to say something funny about each boy, but he's too nice to tease. In fact, I'd love to have a son like him...just not as goofy looking. Hakim: I can still see it, a picture of him wearing only a Provigo bag. I get disturbing flashbacks every time I do groceries. If you find the picture, do me a favour and burn it! Jon: Based on the "Mutant" Clause in the Student Handbook, Entish students like yourself should be given their own rooms in GN. Your only other option is to move into one of the cavernous rooms in Glass House. Glenn: He's got a great outside shot, but that's it! And what's with the constant smiling? I don't trust people who always smile: their either up to something, or they're not too bright. So, what have you been up to, Smiley? Stephan: This year's winner of the Who I'd let Marry My Daughter (if I had one) Award. Cute as a button, a superb athlete, and a model student – almost as nauseatingly perfect as me! Reijer: I soon learned to knock and wait before entering his room.

The halls of GN will never be the same without him prancing around in his boxers and black socks. Charlie: The younger Mexicans knew him as "Papa Charlie." I think this year was tougher than last due to a certain "distraction" (she'll remain nameless).

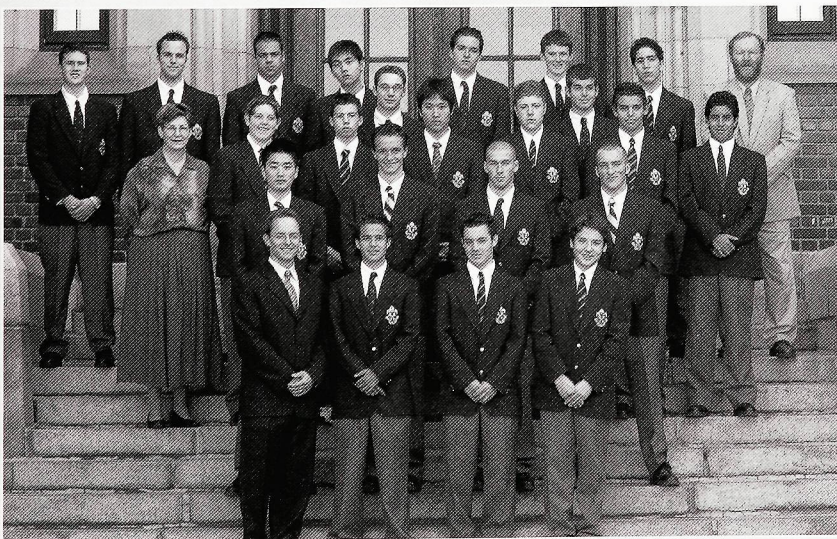

Myles:

Sneaking out, up 'til all hours, constantly messy room, and drinking from JC's water bottle – what a great House Captain!

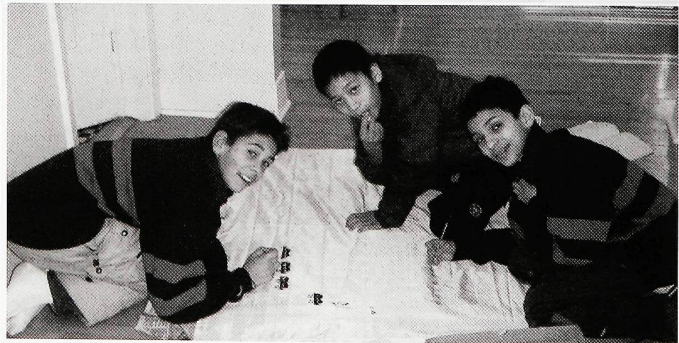

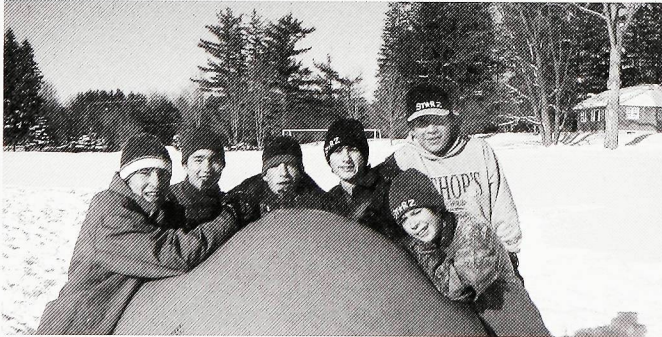

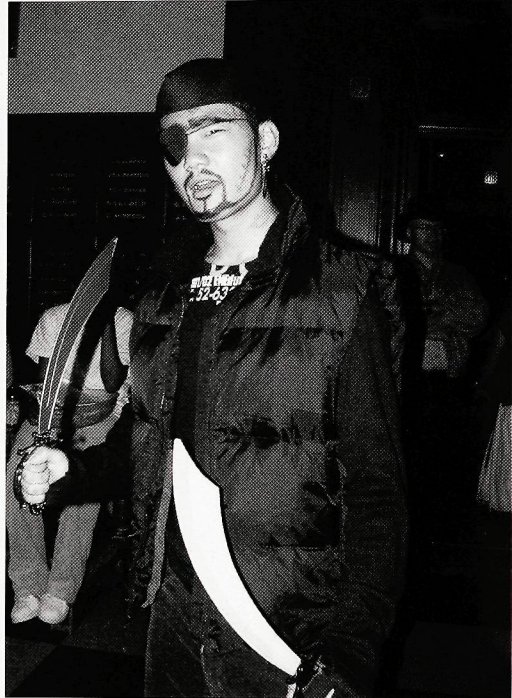

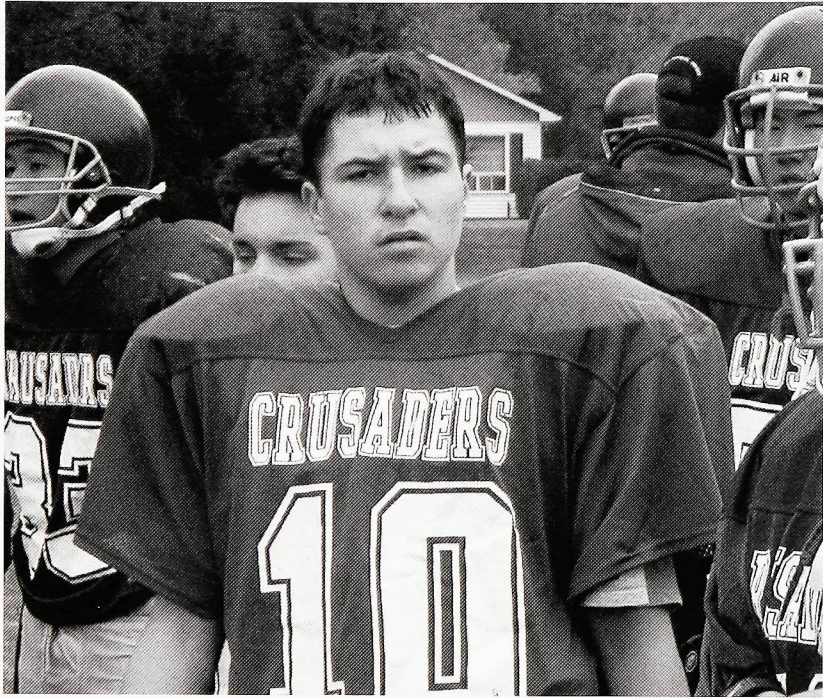

Carlos: Lock up your daughters! You know the saying "good things come in small packages?" Whoever said that didn't meet this little devil. PL: After all the roommate changes last year, I wanted to make sure he had more stability this time. Well, he started with Stephan, then Phil, and finally Ajay (our only exchange student this year – the Dude from Delhi). Okay, so I failed miserably. Mat: With Mat and I away in China, the stud level of GN fell dramatically. Then again, I think all those Chinese women enjoyed seeing us stud-muffins.

Alex: Behind the shaved head, the tattoos, and the big muscles, is a gentle, kind, and soft-spoken sweetheart...I hope he doesn't beat me for saying so. Ben: He made the most of his comeback year. Frankly, I never liked this guy. Brains, Braun, and beauty – truly sickening. Phil: We enjoyed mocking our inferiors. I was really starting to like him, until he did that strange puffy thing to his hair (Phil, the 80's are over!). JC: We didn't always see eye to eye: I was fair and reasonable, and he took advantage of me every chance he got. Hey, if you stick your hand in the cookie jar every day, you're bound to get caught sometimes. Seb F: Just like Rocky Balboa, this Italian Stallion got knocked down a few times, but kept getting back up to fight. Never surrender! Chewy: The nicest North Korean I'll ever meet. I'll miss his quirky sense of humour. I wonder if Seung will miss his late night cuddling in GS. Ki-Baek: I just found out that he has a brother named On-Tario. He wasn't happy about having a roommate, then he spent most of his free time locked in his room with Tiger and Chewy. Tiger: He was a symbol of cool maturity and quiet wisdom...except for the times he had to be carried home. I wonder if he'll miss his home-away-from-home: Chapman! Jacob: A House Captain last year, Head Prefect this year...It looks like his climb towards global dominance is underway. Could anyone with such big, brown, puppy-dog eyes really be so evil? To those returning to GN: Be gentle to your new houseparent.

never underestimate the young

A Saturday night in the Grier South residence means movie night! The House is gathered around, lying on wooden benches, hard cold floors and couches which have been farted on a million times.

10:00 pm

Faucher: "Where is everybody!?"

Christopher: "I dunnoo." (shrugs, and of course, smiling)

Faucher: "Go get Tono for me?"

Vasken: "Sure!"

Vasken: "TONO!"

Tono: "I'm on the shower!"

Frank: "Hey! Does anyone have food?"

Kevin: "NOOOO! I don't have any noodles."

Anthony: "J'ai fait aussi."

Vasken: "TUCK SHOP!"

10:45 pm

Faucher: "Let's get started boys! YA Baby!"

Monica: "SHH! Baby sleeping" (soft voice)

Movie starts, everybody is comfortable (ya right), the start of the first scene.

Vincent: "What Happen? What's going on?"

Mike: "This movie sucks! Let's watch the Ladies Man."

Faucher: "NOOOOOOO!!!"

Mike quickly falls asleep and dreams of the Ladies Man.

Ladies Man: "Hi, I'm the ladies man."

Mike: "HAHAH! That's the funniest thing I ever saw in my life."

11:30 pm

Duaj and Seung (Sing) fall asleep, both in a fetal position. Luis is between them.

Duaj: "I scored 14 points. I swear to God!"

Seung: "Sure ya did."

Duaj: "Want to mess wit me!"

Seung: "OK, Look at this!" (pulls out his muscles)

"Come here you..."

Duaj: "AHHHHH!"

Seung: "I want hot wata for my noodles!"

Luis: Wake up Duaj! No Me Toques!

12:45 am

First movie is finished, but there are more yet to come. Oh! And don't forget about Faucher. He goes in and out during movies. Philip: Technically, we are past our bedtime, which means that the quantum root of the squared number of time will equal...well, not a lot of sleep, would it?

Meme: "Can I ask you a question? Are you an idiot?"

Tristan: "Is that what you wanted to say?"

The two Mexicans and the one Canadian/ American...

we don't know where he is from, fall fast asleep. Jae Won and Myung-kuk come from Wang's room, just finished playing NBA Live 2004 on Christian's computer.

Myung-kuk: "What up son!"

Jae Won: "Hey! What movie is dis?"

Jorges comes back again from his room, either talking on msn messenger or studying...we don't know which.

Faucher: "Hey Tuna!"

Jorges: "I am not tuna, I'm Luna. I'm Serious!"

1:00 am

The middle of the movie, Myung-Kuk and Jae Won have joined the party. Faucher is still in and out of sleep.

Matthias: "What the $@#% just happened? Was it bad?"

Faucher: "HEY! Don't swear!"

BRINNG BRRING

Faucher: "$#@$$! #!&! #!@!! Someone get the phone!" (Pauses movie)

Tono: "Bibeau your mom is in da phone!... Sorry he is in sleep!"

Faucher: "What is his mom calling for at this time?"

Andres and Carlos fall into a worst nightmare sleep.

Andres: "BEEEdtimme? SLEEeep? LAaappps? MEeee?"

Carlos: "Can I have late lights?"

Monica: "Only fifteen minutes."

(15 minutes later.)

Monica: "GO to beeed."

Carlos: "But...But...Ok...1 minutes."

4:00 am

Back at the movie night, we are on the third movie. Many have fallen asleep. The people left are Frank, Vasken, Christian, Laurent, Anthony and Rafael, and of course, Faucher in and out.

Faucher: "Is my wife here?"

All: "No..."

Faucher: pffff

Monica: "GLEEEEN!"

Rafael: "Oh god! Open the door!"

Meme: "Soo c-c-cold."

Christian: Ahh... feels soo nice! Why are you cold?

Laurent: "Ya, be like the Canadian, Represent." (pounds chest)

Anthony: "What he said." (pounds chest)

6:00 am

Christian, Meme, Frank and Vasken are still awake. Faucher wakes up from a daze.

Faucher: "Want to watch another? Gladiator BABY!"

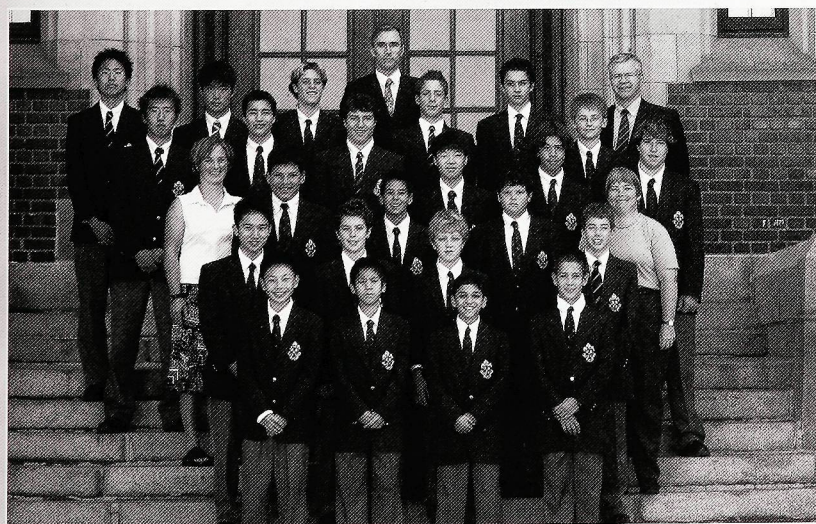

All: "Sure"

7:00 am

By this time, all members of this wonderful Grier South Movie night have fallen asleep...Except one.

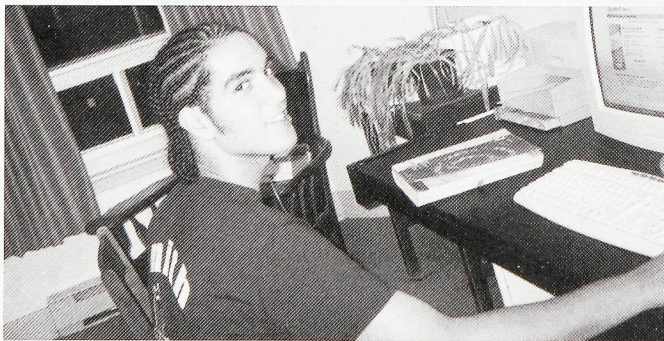

Hisashi: "Bedtime! Ooops."

He finds his spot on the floor next to the Grier South Family.

Smith House

eclectic... or maybe eccentric

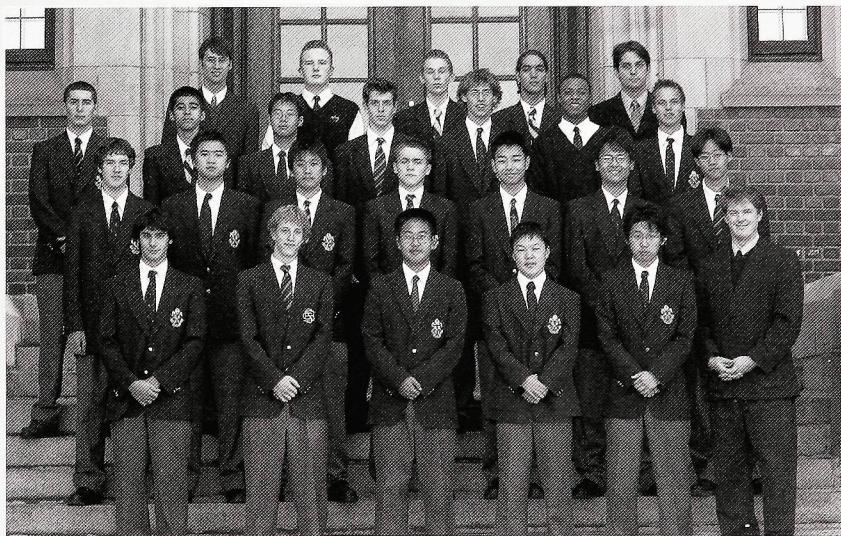

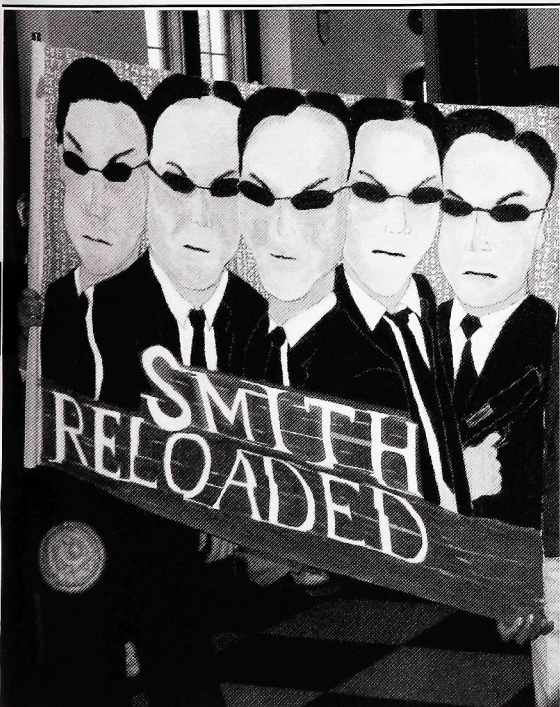

Its 1:00 in Smith House, on a normal school night. Where is everyone? Fahim woke up from a dream that inspired him to make a circular art project in the back of Smith gardens. In his almost devout belief of its glory, no one dares touch it. Arjun is dreaming of beating Tiger in the PGA tour. One of these days Arjun. Colin and Ed are having another rumble in the corridor, keeping everyone awake. They manage to practice another random chapel skit, and rip each other apart at the same time. Jun is practicing for his pub night singing career with Jae Hak, and everyone can almost feel the windows shatter around them. Nelson, tired of hearing all of this wacky Korean music, decides to go down and watch some b-ball on TV. Derek and Roger are cooking up some Chinese noodles, and watching the pirated Pirates of the Caribbean. They sure do know how to conjure up a pun. Tristan is unable to get to bed, trying to think up comebacks to Mr. Liverpool's attacks on Germany. Tae Won and Andy are still up pulling a working all-nighter thanks to their 5 hour nap earlier that day. Jordan is aching all over from the goalie training he had 2nd term. Other than hockey, his distinctive reggae/techno mix from his room is what we will all probably remember most from him. Julian is working on an English essay 'In the plizzle, a street kizzle named dezizzle...'. Mr. Crowther is going to have fun marking this one. Q is on his 25th hour of studying today, but finds the time to take a break and practice guitar for his rock star future. PLove is still awake, far past his bedtime. Since he's the youngest in the house, Mr Kelso realizes that his youthful vitality will help him with his 7:00 check in later that morning. Charles is dreaming of death metal, anti Christian imagery, and his teddy bear from home that he calls fluffy. Tuan is dreaming about violent computer games, Vietnam guerrilla warfare, and his warm blankie from home. Mike S, Mike P, and Charles feel restless, and decide to go out for an innocent, early morning stroll. Hey, they didn't stay up late; they just woke up really, really early. Launey is downstairs, hitting up some crazy video games, most of us didn't even know existed. Mr Tessier is hosting an Asian math party in the basement. In short, 1:00 Smith is like no other 1:00. This is a year we will all remember.

A couple of things to remember the year by:

- *Suspension*Carnival Skit*A lot of movies*Playing drums*Soul Calibre 2*Fight Clubs*KK*Communal Chappa*Jones' leave*
- Mr. Liverpool's unpleasanties in the common room
- The craziest remains unwritten

Achieve Your Dream!!

We are proud of you, who finished the first year successfully in Canada with great friends and teachers. We worried about you after we left you in Canada by yourself. However, you gave us joy and pride instead. As only sister of Jong Yup, and a daughter to Mom and Dad, be ambitious. We all pray so that you can be the best and most creative producer in the world, as you wish.

So, the secret of being cool... it's all in the pose...

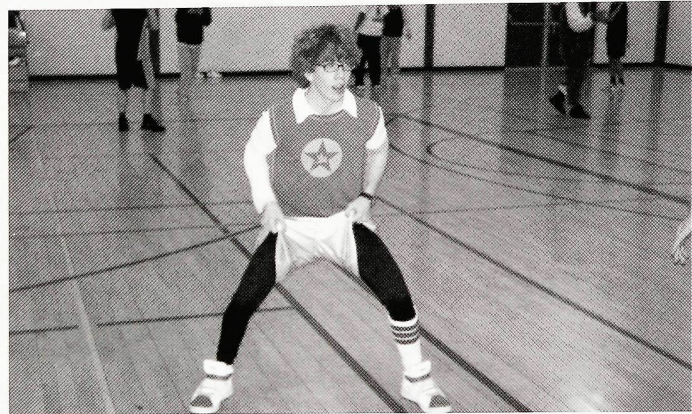

In case of flooding, exams will be postponed.

...adults (?) in a half shell... turtle power!

How does that expression go? "Dumb as a box of..."

...I really have nothing to say... Make up your own caption...

For the last time, stop tearing the canvas!!

Who are three people who have never been in my kitchen?

...and in the end...
